

Brian Camilli

ASSOCIATE

Brian Camilli focuses his practice on insurance litigation, including first-party property, professional liability, premises liability, and construction defect matters.

An associate in the firm's St. Petersburg office, Brian Camilli focuses his practice on insurance litigation, including first-party property, professional liability, premises liability, and construction defect matters. He represents general contractors and building envelope trades in commercial and residential construction defect claims and litigation.

Brian earned his law degree from Florida State University College of Law. While in law school, he worked in-house at a real estate developer, for the City of Tallahassee in the land use division, and for a plaintiffs firm doing construction defect and real estate litigation. Brian has particular interest in Construction and Real Estate issues, having earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Florida in Construction Management, before going on to earn a Master of Science degree in Real Estate from the University of San Diego. Prior to law school, he also spent time working for general contractors in a project management and commercial construction capacity.

When he is not practicing law, Brian enjoys reading, golfing, fishing, and going on walks with his dog.
